2. (i) Liability means amount owed, i.e., payable by the entity. It may be towards the proprietor or partners (called capital) or towards outsiders, i.e., other than proprietor or partners.

OR

Revenue means the amount which, as a result of its business operations, i.e., sale of goods and services, is earned by an enterprise.

(ii) The main objective of accounting standards is to minimise the diverse accounting policies and practices with an aim to bring harmony and uniformity in accounting practices.

OR

Accounting Standards provide the rules on the basis of which Financial Statements should be prepared.

(iii) Going Concern Concept is a concept under which it is assumed that business will continue for a foreseeable period and there is no intention to close the business or scale down its operations significantly.

OR

Accounting Entity Concept is a concept under which business is considered to be separate and distinct from its owners, i.e., proprietors, partners and shareholders.

- (iv) Double Entry System of Accounting is a system of accounting under which both, debit and credit, aspects of a transaction are recorded.
- (v) Difference between Purchases Book and Purchases Account (Any one)

Basis	Purchases Book	Purchases Account
1. Part	It is a part of Journal.	It is a part of Ledger.
2. Format	Like Ledger Account, it does not have debit and credit columns.	It has debit and credit columns.
3. Contents	Only credit purchases of goods dealt in or consumed for production are recorded.	Credit as well as cash purchases of goods dealt in or consumed for production are recorded.
4. Amount	Total of Purchases Book is posted to the Purchases Account.	Balance in the account is transferred to the Trading Account.

OR

Difference between Journal and Ledger

	Point of Difference	Journal	Ledger
1.	Nature of Book	It is a book of primary entry.	It is a book of final entry.
2.	Basis for Preparation	Primary documents (such as vouchers, receipts, etc.) are the basis for recording transactions in the Journal.

A Bill of Exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

Features of Bill of Exchange are:

- (a) Bill of Exchange is a written order.
- (b) It is drawn and signed by the maker, i.e., drawer of the bill.
- (c) It is an unconditional order to a person, i.e., drawee, to pay the specified amount. The drawee must accept it to make it a legitimate document.
- (d) The specified amount is payable to the person named in the bill or to his order or to the bearer.
- (e) It specifies the date by which the amount should be paid.
- (f) It is accepted by the drawee.
- (iv) Accounting function being carried out by means of accounting software, i.e., Computers minimises human intervention but it does not completely eliminates it. Human intervention is limited to preparation of voucher and feeding the same in the accounting software.

The process of classifying (posting) into the Ledger Account, summarising and balancing the accounts and preparation of financial statements (Trading, Profit and Loss Account and Balance Sheet) is carried out by the computer itself because the software is designed to perform these functions. Thus, it reduces considerable time in maintenance of accounts as compared to Manual Accounts.

The process of automation becomes effective, if grouping of accounts is proper. Incorrect grouping of accounts will lead to incorrect classification, summarisation and preparation of financial statements.

(ii) Difference between Receipts and Payments Account and Income and Expenditure Account

Basis	Receipts and Payments Account	Income and Expenditure Account
1. Purpose	Purpose of this account is to show the difference between two sides denoting the Cash/Bank balance at the end.	Purpose of this account is to show net result of the activities undertaken during the year resulting in surplus or deficit.
2. Nature	It is a classified summary of cash transactions showing receipts and payments under different heads for the period (Real Account).	It is like a Profit and Loss Account (Nominal Account).
3. Form	Debit side of this account records receipts and credit side records payments.	Debit side of this account records expenses and losses and credit side records incomes.
4. Balance	Balance in the beginning means cash in hand and bank balance in the beginning and balance at the end means cash in hand and bank balance at the end.	There is no balance in the beginning. Balance at the end means either surplus or deficit.
5. Capital and Revenue Items	It records receipts and payments during the year of both capital and revenue items.	It records income and expenditure of only revenue items relating to the accounting period.
6. Contents	It shows receipts and payments made during the year whether they relate to past, current or succeeding year.	It shows incomes and expenditures of the current year only.
7. Adjustments	It is based on cash system of accounting. Hence, no adjustments are made.	It is based on accrual system of accounting. Hence, adjustments are made.
8. Depreciation	It does not record non-cash items, e.g., depreciation.	It records non-cash items, e.g., depreciation.

Single Entry system of accounting is a system of accounting under which Cash Book and accounts of Debtors and Creditors are maintained. Since Real and Nominal Accounts are not maintained, it is known as Single Entry system of Accounting.

Limitations of Single Entry System: Single Entry System is an incomplete and insufficient system of information, hence it has following limitations:

- (a) Arithmetical Accuracy cannot be Proved: Trial Balance cannot be prepared hence, arithmetical accuracy of books cannot be proved or tested. Chances of error, mischief or fraud remaining undetected are high.
- (b) No Control on Assets: Since Asset Accounts are not maintained, it is difficult to keep full control, in order to avoid misappropriations of assets.

- (c) Correct Profit or Loss cannot be Determined: Trading and Profit and Loss Account cannot be prepared hence, correct profit earned or loss incurred during the accounting period cannot be determined.
- (d) Financial Position of the Business cannot be Assessed: In the absence of Asset Accounts, it is difficult to determine correct financial position of the business on any particular day by preparing a Balance Sheet.
- (e) No Internal Check: Since internal check is not possible, the method leaves room for errors and frauds, besides their detection becomes difficult.
- (f) Difficult to Ascertain the Value of Business: The records being inadequate, it is difficult to value the business, especially goodwill.
- (g) Incomplete and Unscientific System: This system is incomplete and unscientific as both the aspects of a transaction are not recorded and no set rules are followed for recording them.
- (h) Comparative Study is Difficult: A major defect of this system is that the financial position of the current year cannot be compared with that of the previous year due to incomplete information of transactions of business.

Double Entry system of Accounting is a system of accounting under which both the aspects of debit and credit of a transaction are recorded in the books of account. It is a scientific and complete system of accounting.

Difference between Double Entry System and Single Entry System of Accounting:

Double Entry system maintains a complete record of each transaction recording both the aspects. Under Single Entry System, on the other hand, all the transactions are not recorded as in Double Entry System. In some transactions both the aspects are recorded while in some one aspect is recorded or not recorded at all.

Endorsement of Bill: When the holder of a bill transfers the bill to a third party, the bill is said to have been endorsed or negotiated.

Difference between Bill of Exchange and Promissory Note

Basis	Bill of Exchange	Promissory Note
1. Drawer	Creditor is the Drawer.	Debtor is the Drawer.
2. Order/Promise	It is an order to pay.	It is a promise to pay.
3. Acceptance	It needs acceptance by the Drawee.	It does not need acceptance by the Drawee.
4. Parties	It has three parties namely—Drawer, Drawee and Payee.	It has two parties namely—Promisor and Payee.
5. Liability	Liability of the drawer arises only if the acceptor does not pay.	Promisor has the primary liability to pay.
6. Copies	In case of foreign bills, three copies are made but otherwise only one copy is prepared.	Only one copy is prepared whether it is foreign or local.
7. Stamp	Bill payable on demand need not to be stamped but otherwise stamps would be necessary.	It has to be stamped in any case.

- (iv) (a) Simple and Integrated: It helps all businesses by automating and integrating all the business activities. Such activities may be sales, finance, purchase, inventory, and manufacturing etc. It also facilitates the arrangement of accurate and up-to-date business information in a readily usable form.

(ii) Receipts and Payments Account

Meaning

Receipts and Payments Account is a summary of Cash and Bank transactions during an accounting period prepared under appropriate heads of accounts. It begins with cash and bank balances in the beginning and ends with cash and bank balances at the end of the accounting period. Receipts are shown on the debit side and payments are shown on the credit side of the account. It being Receipts and Payments Account, receipts and payments of every nature are shown in this account, i.e., whether it is capital or revenue in nature or whether it relates to the current year, previous year or next year. Receipts and Payments Account gives a fair idea about the cash position of an organisation. A specimen of Receipts and Payments Account is given below to clarify how Receipts and Payments Account is prepared.

Difference between Receipts and Payments Account and Cash Book

	Basis	Receipts and Payments Account	Cash Book
1.	Basis	It is prepared on the basis of Cash Book.	It is prepared on the basis of each receipt and payment.
2.	Period	Receipts and Payments Account is prepared at the end of accounting year. It is a summary of the Cash Book.	Cash Book is written on daily basis.
3.	Date	Transactions under this are not written datewise.	Transactions are recorded datewise in the Cash Book.
4.	Institutions	It is prepared by the Not-for-Profit Organisation.	It is prepared by all organisations be it Not-for-Profit Organisation or a commercial establishment.
5.	Side	Under it, there are receipts and payments sides instead of debit and credit sides.	Cash Book is divided into debit and credit sides.
6.	Ledger Folio	There is no column of Ledger Folio.	Cash Book has a separate column for Ledger Folio.

Difference between Balance Sheet and Statement of Affairs

Basis	Balance Sheet	Statement of Affairs
1. Objective	The main objective of preparing Balance Sheet is to know about the financial position of the business.	The main objective of preparing Statement of Affairs is to know about capitals at a point of time.
2. Accounting Method	Balance Sheet is prepared when accounts are maintained under Double Entry System.	Statement of Affairs is prepared when accounts are maintained under Single Entry System of Accounting.
3. Accounts and Information	This is prepared exclusively on the basis of ledger accounts.	In view of incomplete accounts, its preparation is based on limited accounts, calculations, estimates and other information.
4. Reliability	Being based on actual figures, Balance Sheet is regarded as a reliable statement.	Since it is based partly on the accounts and partly on other information and one's memory, hence, it is not regarded as reliable.
5. Trial Balance	Trial Balance is prepared before Balance Sheet and the latter bases on the former.	In the case of Statement of Affairs, Trial Balance is not prepared.
6. Arithmetical Accuracy	The tallying of Balance Sheet implies arithmetical accuracy of accounting.	But, Statement of Affairs does not prove in any sense the arithmetical accuracy of the accounting.
7. Missing of Facts	Since both the aspects of all transactions are duly recorded, there remains hardly any fact missing from the accounts.	There is always a possibility for missing of facts because the accounts are incomplete. The reason is that neither all transactions nor both aspects of every transaction are recorded in the books of account.

- 2. (i) Assets are valuable resources owned by a business which are acquired at a measurable money cost.
 - (ii) Accounting Cycle starts with recording transactions and ends with preparation of financial statement and communicating them to the users. Based on the attributes, the steps of accounting process are as follows:
 - (a) Identifying financial transactions and events;
 - (b) Recording;
 - (c) Classifying;
 - (d) Summarising;
 - (e) Analysing and Interpreting; and
 - (f) Communicating.

The fundamental Assumptions of Accounting are:

- (a) Going Concern Assumption;
- (b) Consistency Assumption; and
- (c) Accrual Assumption.
- (iii) Contingent Liability is a liability happening of which is dependent on an outcome in future not under the control of the enterprise.
- (iv) The fundamental accounting equation is assets are always equal to capital plus liabilities (i.e., Owner's Equity + Outsiders' Equity).

Thus, Assets = Capital + Liabilities.

OR

Profit means income earned by the business from its Operating Activities. But gain is incidental such as gain on sale of fixed assets or investments or writing off liabilities not payable.

(v) Compensating Errors are those errors in which effect of one error is nullified by the effect of another error.

OR

Suspense Account is the account to which the amount being the difference in trial balance is temporarily placed.

(vi) An example of error of principle is treating purchase of an asset and/or other amounts spent such as freight, etc. on its acquisition as revenue expenditure instead of capital expenditure.

An error of omission is an error when a transaction is completely or partially omitted from being recorded in the books of account.

(vii) Reserve is an appropriation of profit whereas provision is a charge against profit.

OR

Depreciation is not a fund but a distribution of cost of fixed asset over its useful life in a reasonable and systematic manner. Since the amount of depreciation is not invested in outside securities, it is not a fund.

- (viii) Rectification of Errors is necessary for preparing correct accounting records and ascertaining correct net profit or loss for the accounting period.
 - (ix) Inventory (Stock) ₹ 1,00,000; Working Capital ₹ 2,40,000; Current Assets ₹ 4,20,000. Bank overdraft ₹ 20,000; Calculate Liquidity Ratio.

$$\label{eq:Liquid Ratio} \begin{aligned} & \text{Liquid Ratio} = \frac{\text{₹}2,50,000}{20} \times 100 = \frac{\text{₹}3,20,000}{\text{₹}1,80,000} = 1.78:1. \\ & \text{Quick Assets} = & \text{Current Assets} - & \text{Inventory (Stock)} \end{aligned}$$ and Expenditure Account.

3.

Working Capital = Current Assets – Current Liabilities

Current Liabilities = Current Assets – Working Capital = ₹ 4,20,000 - ₹ 2,40,000 = ₹ 1,80,000.

- (x) The amount of general donation is accounted as an income and credited to Income
- (xi) Under Double Entry System both aspects of a transaction are recorded. Under Single Entry System both aspects of transaction are not recorded. In fact, for some transactions both aspects, for some others one aspect and yet for others no aspect at all are recorded.

OR

Fixed assets are those non-current assets of an enterprise which are held not to resale but with the purpose to increase its earning capacity.

(xii) Computer Hardware are the components of computer that have physical existence such as Keyboard, CPU, Monitor, etc.

Computer Software is a general term for the various kinds of programs used to operate computer and related devices. Software is a set of instructions on the basis of which a computer operates.

A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing, containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker directing a certain person to pay specific sum of money only to, or to the order of, a specified person or to the bearer of the instrument.

The two features of Bill of Exchange are:

- (a) Bill of Exchange is a written order.
- (b) It is drawn and signed by the maker, i.e., drawer of the bill.
- (iv) A Computerised Accounting System has many advantages as discussed below:
 - (a) Large Volume of Transactions: In the present day business environment, the transactions of a business are normally large in volume. The computerised accounting system can store and process such voluminous transactions with speed and accuracy.
 - (b) Scalability: A computerised accounting system is scalable to handle the growing transactions.
 - (c) Security: The accounting data under the computerised environment is safer than the accounting data under the manual system. The data can be kept secure by using a password, i.e., allowing only authorised users to access the data.
 - (d) Timely Reporting: Availability of reports on time enables the management to take quick decisions, which is an important element for the success of an enterprise. A computerised accounting system makes these reports available as and when required.

A system of Book Keeping in which as a rule only records of cash and of personal accounts are maintained, it is always incomplete double entry varying with the circumstances.

The limitations of Single Entry System are:

- (i) Arithmetical accuracy cannot be Proved: Trial Balance cannot be prepared hence, arithmetical accuracy of books cannot be proved.
- (ii) No record of Assets: Since Assets accounts are not maintained, it is difficult to keep full control, in order to avoid misappropriation of assets.
- (iii) Correct Profit or Loss cannot be determined: Trading and Profit and Loss Account cannot be prepared hence, correct profit earned or loss incurred during the accounting period cannot be determined.

(iv) True Financial Position of the Business cannot be Assessed: In the absence of assets accounts, it is difficult to determine true financial position of the business on any particular day by preparing a Balance Sheet.

- (ii) Internal Causes of Depreciation:
 - (i) Use of Asset: Constant use of asset leads to its wear and tear and thus results in fall in value.
 - (ii) Efflux of Time: Some assets have a definite life period like lease; on the expiry of the life period, the asset will cease to exist. Other assets, like plant and machinery may not have a definite life; in their case the life is estimated.
 - (iii) Obsolescence: If a better machine becomes available which reduces the cost of production, old machines may have to be scrapped even though they are capable of being used. It is a reduction in the usefulness of the asset.

Differences between Manual Accounting System and Computerised System of Accounting are:

(iv) Recording: The process of recording transaction in the books of original entry, posting them in the ledger accounts, performing mathematical functions, i.e., adding, subtraction and totalling, are carried out manually under the manual process. In the computerised process, transactions are recorded in the books of account and the remaining functions are performed without any further process or command being carried out manually.

Classification: In the manual process, the transactions are recorded in the books of original entry and are posted into the ledger accounts. It means that, after recording the transaction, another process of posting is performed. In computerised accounting, the posting process is carried out by internal sorting of data, i.e., with the help of utility or application software, without any further process.

Summarising: In the manual system of accounting, the data under each Ledger is summarised and a balance of each account is ascertained to prepare a Trial Balance. As a result, preparing ledger accounts is essential to prepare a Trial Balance. In the computerised process, a transaction or event, once recorded, is stored in the database and can be processed to produce a Trial Balance directly.

Adjustment Entries: Adjustment Entries are passed to rectify an error or to follow the matching concept of accounting, i.e., matching the cost with revenue. The process of passing adjustment entries can be equated with the recording process. These entries are identified and recorded in the books of account. The remaining process is the same as discussed above.

 $$\operatorname{\textsc{OR}}$$ Difference between Double Entry System and Single Entry System

Basis	Double Entry System	Single Entry System
1. Both Aspects	Under this system, both aspects of a transaction are recorded.	Under this system, both aspects of transaction are not recorded. In fact, for some transactions two aspects, for some others one aspect and yet for others no aspect at all are recorded.
2. Accounts Maintained	Under this system, personal, real and nominal, etc., all the accounts are maintained. Thus, it is a complete and scientific system of accounting.	Under this system, only personal accounts and Cash Book are maintained. Hence, it remains an incomplete record of accounts.
3. Trial Balance	Under this system, Trial Balance is prepared and thus, the arithmetical accuracy of the books of account is verified.	Under this system, Trial Balance cannot be prepared due to incomplete system of accounting. Therefore, arithmetical accuracy of the accounting cannot be verified.
4. Profit or Loss	Under this system, after a certain period, net profit or net loss can be ascertained by preparing the Profit and Loss Account.	Under this system, Profit and Loss Account is not prepared to ascertain the net profit or loss. Method for ascertaining the profit or loss is not adequate.
5. Financial Position	Under this system, correct financial position of the business can be ascertained by preparing the Balance Sheet.	Under this system, Balance Sheet is not prepared. Only Statement of Affairs is prepared. The reason is that the assets and liabilities do not stand at real amounts but at estimated amounts.
6. Adjustments	Under this system, adjustments are made at the time of preparing the Final Accounts.	There is no provision to make adjustments primarily because of incompleteness of accounts.
7. Use	This system is used by almost all the businesses.	This system is used by only tiny businesses and institutions.
8. Authenticity	This system is considered authentic by the Court.	The Court does not consider this system as authentic.

GROUP-B

2. (i) Deferred Revenue Expenditure: Deferred Revenue Expenditure is revenue expenditure by nature but it is not treated as revenue expenditure on the basis that its benefit is not fully exhausted in the accounting period in which it is incurred. The example is large advertising expenditure.

OR

Internal Users of Accounting Information are:

- (i) Owners (ii) Management.
- (ii) Account: An Account is a summarised record of relevant transactions at one place relating to a particular head. It records not only the amount of transactions but also their effect and direction.
- (iii) Matching Concept: Matching Concept means that an expense is recognised as an expense in the year related revenue is recognised.

OR.

- GAAP: GAAP (Generally Accepted Accounting Principles) is a collection of commonly followed accounting rules and standards for financial reporting.
- (iv) Contra Entry: Contra entries means entries which affect both Cash and Bank columns of the Cash Book and are, therefore, recorded on both sides of the Cash Book. Examples are:
 - (i) Cash deposited in the bank. (ii) Cash withdrawn from the Bank. OR Cash Book is a Journalised Ledger because Cash and bank transactions are recorded in the Cash Book and from the recorded transactions, Ledger Accounts are prepared. Therefore, Cash Book is a Subsidiary Book. Also, Cash Book by itself is Cash Account and Bank Account. The balances are entered in the Trial Balance directly. Cash Book, therefore, is a part of the Ledger also. Hence, it is also a Principal Book.

Cash Book is, thus, both a Subsidiary Book and a Principal Book.

(v) Invoice: An Invoice or Bill is prepared by the seller when the goods are sold on credit. It has details of the party to whom goods are sold, goods sold and the total sale amount. The original copy of the sales invoice is sent to the purchaser and a duplicate copy is retained as an evidence of the sales for recording it in the books of account and for future reference. For the purchaser, credit purchases are evidenced by bill received from the supplier.

(vi) Compound Entry: Compound (Journal) entry is a Journal entry in which one or more accounts are debited and/or one or more accounts are credited or vice versa. For example, sale of goods to Satish for ₹ 5,000. ₹ 2,000 is received in cash and balance to be received later.

Entry for the transaction is a compound entry as follows:

 Cash/Bank A/c
 ₹ 2,000

 Satish's A/c
 ...Dr.
 ₹ 3,000

To Sales A/c ₹ 5,000

OR

Doctrine of Materiality: According to the Convention of Materiality, a transaction should be reported in the financial statements on the basis of its materiality. An item is material if it can influence the decision of the user.

- (vii) Cash Book and Pass Book.
- (viii) Accrual Basis of Accounting.

OR

Capital Fund: In the case of Not-for-Profit Organisation, difference between assets and liabilities is termed as 'Capital Fund'.

- (ix) Under 'Double Entry System' all types of accounts are maintained while under 'Single Entry System' usually Cash, Bank and personal accounts of debtors and creditors are maintained.
- (x) Single Entry System: Under this system of accounting, both the aspects of a transaction are not recorded. Unlike Double Entry System, no set rules are followed in this system. Usually, the Cash Book and Personal Accounts of debtors and creditors are maintained. Real and Nominal Accounts are not maintained.

OR

Ascertaining Credit Sales: Credit Sales for the period is determined by preparing Total Debtors Account. Total Debtors Account is prepared by placing following in the debit side:

- (i) Opening Balance
- (ii) Cash paid (say for goods returned)
- (iii) Bills Receivable Dishonoured
- (iv) Debit for charges (say Freight)

On the credit side of Total Debtors Account following are placed:

- (i) Cash/Cheque received
- (ii) Cash Discount Allowed
- (iii) Bills Receivable
- (iv) Returns Inward
- (v) Bad Debts
- (vi) Any other credit allowed (say rebate for quality, Bad Debts, etc.)
- (vii) Closing Balance

Credit Sale is the difference between the two balances.

(xi) Software: It is a general term for the various kind of programs used to operate computer and related devices. Software is a set of instructions on the basis of which a computer operates. Unlike computer hardware, computer software cannot be seen or touched. It is the intangible or invisible part of the computer which is used with hardware to perform computer applications.

OR

CPU: Central Processing Unit.

(xii) Profit & Loss Account is a periodical statement because it shows Net Profit or Net Loss during a particular period of time, e.g., from 1st April, 2021 to 31st March, 2022. All the items of incomes and expenses are related to this specific period only.

2. Format	Like ledger account, it does not have debit and credit columns.	It has debit and credit columns.
3. Contents	Only credit purchases of goods dealt in or consumed for production are recorded.	Credit as well as cash purchases of goods dealt in or consumed for production are recorded.
6. Amount	Total of Purchases Book is posted to the Purchases Account.	Balance in the account is transferred to the Trading Account.

(iv) Advantages of Computerised Accounting:

1. Large Volume of Transactions: In the present-day business environment, the transactions of a business are normally large in volume. The computerised accounting system can store and process such voluminous transactions with speed and accuracy.

2. Timely Reporting: Availability of reports on time enables the management to take quick decisions, which is an important element for the success of an enterprise. A computerised accounting system makes these reports available as and when required.

Disadvantages of Computerised Accounting:

- 1. Controls: If adequate controls are not built and, where built, are not followed, it can lead to loss of data. It is important to take back-ups at regular intervals to avoid such a situation.
- 2. Data Corruption: The data can get corrupted through viruses that may come in through the internet or the use of external input devices without scanning them for viruses.

Basis	Receipts & Payments Account	Income & Expenditure Account
1. Purpose	Purpose of this account is to show the difference between two sides denoting the Cash/Bank balance at the end.	Purpose of this account is to show net result of the activities undertaken during the year resulting in surplus or deficit.
2. Nature	It is a classified summary of cash transactions showing receipts and payments under different heads for the period (Real Account).	It is like a Profit & Loss Account (Nominal Account).
3. Form	Debit side of this account records receipts and credit side records payments.	Debit side of this account records expenses and losses and credit side records incomes.
4. Balance	Balance in the beginning means cash in hand and bank balance in the beginning and balance at the end means cash in hand and bank balance at the end.	There is no balance in the beginning. Balance at the end means either surplus or deficit.
5. Capital and Revenue Items	It records receipts and payments during the year of both capital and revenue items.	It records income and expenditure of only revenue items relating to the accounting period.
6. Contents	It shows receipts and payments made during the year whether they relate to past, current or succeeding year.	It shows incomes and expenditures of the current year only.
7. Adjustments	It is based on cash system of accounting. Hence, no adjustments are made.	It is based on accrual system of accounting. Hence, adjustments are made.
8. Non-cash Items	It does not record non-cash items, e.g. , depreciation.	It records both cash and non-cash items.

(iii) Single Entry System: Under this system of accounting, both the aspects of a transaction are not recorded. Unlike Double Entry System, no set rules are followed in this system. Usually, the Cash Book and Personal Accounts of debtors and creditors are maintained. Real and Nominal Accounts are not maintained.

Limitations:

- (i) Arithmetical Accuracy cannot be Proved: Trial Balance cannot be prepared hence, arithmetical accuracy of books cannot be proved or tested. Chances of error, mischief or fraud remaining undetected are high.
- (ii) No Control on Assets: Since asset accounts are not maintained, it is difficult to keep full control, in order to avoid misappropriations of assets.
- (iii) Correct Profit or Loss cannot be Determined: Trading and Profit and Loss Account cannot be prepared hence, correct profit earned or loss incurred during the accounting period cannot be determined.
- (iv) True Financial Position of the Business cannot be Assessed: In the absence of assets accounts, it is difficult to determine correct financial position of the business on any particular day by preparing a Balance Sheet.

2. (i) Accounting: Accounting is a systematic process of identifying, measuring, recording, classifying, summarising, interpreting and communicating financial information to the users.

OR

Accounting Cycle: An Accounting Cycle is a systematic process of identifying, measuring, recording, classifying, summarising, interpreting and communicating financial information to the users.

- (ii) Matching Concept: According to the Matching Concept, cost incurred to earn revenue should be recognised as expense in the period when revenue is recognised as earned.
- (iii) Fundamental Equation of Accounting: The accounting equation is a mathematical equation which shows that the assets and liabilities of a firm are equal, i.e., Assets = Liabilities + Capital. It is based on Dual Aspect Concept of Accounting.

OR

Going Concern Concept: According to the Going Concern Concept, it is assumed that the business will continue for a foreseeable future and there is no intention to close or scale down the operations significantly.

(iv) Example of Deferred Revenue Expenditure: Advertisement Suspense, i.e., large advertisement expense to be written off in more than one year.

OR

Fixed Asset: Fixed Assets are the assets which are acquired not with a purpose to resell but with a purpose to increase the earning capacity of the business.

- (v) Journal: Journal is a book of primary entry or a book of original entry in which transactions are first recorded in a chronological order, i.e., in the order or sequence they are entered.
- (vi) It is necessary to rectify the errors because without rectification correct net profit or loss for the accounting period cannot be determined.

OR

Error of Omission: An error of omission is an error when a transaction is completely or partially omitted from being recorded in the books of account.

Meaning of Single Entry System: Single Entry System of accounting is a system in which accounting records are not maintained according to Double Entry System of book keeping.

Limitations of Single Entry System:

- (i) Arithmetical Accuracy cannot be Proved: Trial Balance cannot be prepared hence, arithmetical accuracy of books cannot be proved or tested. Chances of error, mischief or fraud remaining undetected are high.
- (ii) No Control on Assets: Since asset accounts are not maintained, it is difficult to keep full control, in order to avoid misappropriations of assets.
- (iii) Correct Profit or Loss cannot be Determined: Trading and Profit and Loss Account cannot be prepared hence, correct profit earned or loss incurred during the accounting period cannot be determined.
- (iv) True Financial Position of the Business cannot be Assessed: In the absence of assets accounts, it is difficult to determine correct financial position of the business on any particular day by preparing a Balance Sheet.
